

WHEN TO TELL YOUR STUDENT ABOUT DISABILITY RESOURCES

INFOGRAPHIC BY ACADEMIC SUCCESS CENTER

Here at Rowan University, we care about our students. We want them to be aware of the available resources on campus designed to help them not only survive college, but thrive! Not every student is aware of the Academic Success Center Disability Resources. If you see a student struggling, take the time to reach out and talk to them about it.

POOR GRADES

Has your A+ student started to turn in F- work? Has your most engaged student repeatedly failed tests & quizzes? Is there a student who is missing just about everything on the syllabus?

MEDICAL DOCUMENTS

Have a student trying to offer you medical documents as explanation and don't know what to do with them? Direct them to Disability Resources because we do!

MISSING CLASS

Did a student suddenly stop showing up to class without withdrawing? Has a student repeatedly shown up late or left early?

DISTRESSED & STRUGGLING

Students are known for complaining about homework, but take a minute to check in on your class. Is anyone visibly upset? A little too frustrated? Asking you a million questions just to keep up?

UNEXPECTED EMERGENCY

A concussion is an unexpected emergency. A broken leg is an unexpected emergency. A car crash is a -- you guessed it! Let your student know there are TEMPORARY ACCOMMODATIONS, too.

REACHING OUT

Your student may be self aware enough to be able to reach out to you. They may know what's wrong, they may not. We here at Disability Resources want to figure this out together!

THANK YOU

As a professor, we know you are busy. We know you may have hundreds of students. We also know how big an impact you can have on your students, especially those most in need of your guidance. With your help, our Rowan students can become the best students we know they can be!
