College Prep Transition Conference

College Prep Transition Conference March 10, 2018

College Prep Transition Conference is a day long conference offered to high school students with disabilities and their parents. The goal of the conference is to provide students with knowledge and understanding of the transition process. We also hope to help parents and students learn about the difference between high school and college to allow them to better prepare for those adjustments.

The Conference will take place March 10 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Rowan University Chamberlain Student Center.

The registration fee is $50 for individual participants, or $60 for a parent and student registering together. Additional attendees require a $15 registration fee.

Send in the registration form with the registration fee by March 2. Please make checks payable to Rowan University. For faster service, register quickly and securely at marketplace.rowanonline.com/collegeprep with your credit card.

Once your enrollment is confirmed, you will be sent additional information about the conference.

Workshop topics include

- Living on campus versus commuting
- How college is different than high school
- Career readiness and planning
- Attending a two-year versus a four-year college
- How to prepare to transition to college
- Parent-to-parent workshop
- First-hand experiences from current students and alumni

"It is abundantly clear that Rowan staff are invested in the success of students with disabilities.

—D.W.

"This was an eye-opening experience that every parent of a college-bound student with a disability should attend. I learned more in one day than I could have gathered online or through word of mouth."

—S.K.

"I could really envision my daughter going to school here. I did not know how supportive your Special Services are.

—H.L.

"I honestly feel grateful we could attend. I feel more confident
