Definitions

- Employee - a worker who is hired through Human Resources or the Office of the Provost, and paid under a W-2. For the purpose of this training, the employee will be referred to as the Service Requestor (SR).

- Independent Contractor - an individual or firm engaged in an established business, trade or profession who provides services to Rowan University and the fees are reported on the IRS Form 1099-MISC.

- Service Provider – An individual interested in performing services for the University.
Independent Contractor Classification

- What is the classification process?
- To whom does it apply?
- Why is it important?
- Guidelines for determining Independent Contractor (IC) status
- What do I do when I engage an outside Service Provider (SP)?
- Special situations
Purpose of Classification Process

To determine if a SP is:

- An employee subject to tax withholdings (receives IRS Form W2); or

- An IC responsible for paying their own taxes (receives IRS Form 1099-MISC).
Applies to Outside SPs and Consultants

- Corporations – considered ICs
- Partnerships – considered ICs
- Limited Liability Companies – requires careful evaluation
- Individuals – requires careful evaluation
Why the Determination Process is Important

- To comply with federal and state guidelines for consistent and fair classification of workers.
- To avoid taxes, penalties, and interest assessed for noncompliance.
General Guidelines

- The more control the University has over a SP, the more likely it is that the SP will be an employee rather than an IC.

- Factors for determining IC status fall into three categories.
General guidelines, continued…

- Behavioral control relates to whether the University has a right to direct and control how the services will be performed. In general, anyone who performs services for the University is an employee if the University has the right to control what will be done and how it will be done.

- Financial control looks at whether a service provider has the ability to affect financial decisions connected with services performed such as realizing a profit or loss and assuming the cost of unreimbursed expenses.

- Relationship between the parties looks at how the relationship is perceived including whether there is a written contract or if benefits are provided.
Significant Policy Change

➢ Through December 31, 2017:
  Service Requestor (SR) or hiring department determines status
