As a search committee member, you will need to review candidates once the position has closed. Log in to PageUp and choose Search Committee Review from main menu or the home page. There will be a list of jobs in which you are on the search committee. You will see how many applicants there are for a given position under the total applications column. If you would like to view the applicants that have applied for a job click on the words View Applicants on the right-hand side of the screen. This will take you to the screen where you can view applicants and their job materials for consideration. The system might show a total number of candidates on this screen, however when you view applicants, the system will only show you those in a complete and viewable status.
Search Committee - Review Applicants

You are able to sort candidates in alphabetical order by name. If you are looking for a particular candidate you can use the find feature of your browser by pressing the Control F (Mac: Command F) keys and typing the candidate’s name in. This will locate them on the list, even if their name is not visible without scrolling down.

From this screen you can also add notes under the Summary section as well as choose Selection Criteria Outcome. The outcomes include Does not meet criteria, Meets criteria, and Exceeds criteria.

To the left of the applicant’s name you will see two icons. One will allow you to see their application, and the other will allow you to see the applicant’s resume.

If you select the applicant’s name, you will see their personal information and a history associated with their application as it moves through Human Resources. The applicant’s resume will also be visible.
Search Committee Chairperson - Change Status

The Committee Chairperson will change the status and move ahead with candidates from reviewing to interviewing. Only the Chair will be responsible for this task.

Select the applicant's name and you will see the position and an Actions dropdown menu. To change the status, click on the Actions dropdown and choose Change status.

You will then choose the correct status based on where you are in the process such as Phone Screen, Onsite Interview and Search Committee Review Successful - IED Review.

The Change status drop down menu might look different for each person depending on permissions. Do not worry if your menu looks different than what is pictured below.
Select New Form in the Actions menu to generate Interview Feedback Forms and Rationale forms.

Select the Interview Feedback Form while you are still interviewing candidates, providing a form for each interview.

Select the Rationale form when the candidate desired has been chosen.

Next > will enlarge the form.

Contact your Human Resources Recruiter prior to filling out a Rationale form.
Search Committee Chairperson - Forms

Each interview must be followed by a Interview Feedback Form. Search Committee can be chosen for Interviewer Name.

When a candidate is chosen, contact your Recruiter as a first step. Then fill out a Rationale Form. If you have notes you want added to your forms, contact your recruiter and they can attached the scan documents to the form.

Checking references is suggested when hiring a candidate for a new position. If you would like to initiate a reference check, contact your Human Resources Recruiter. Please note that if the recruitment process chosen in the job card was Faculty Recruitment, reference checks will automatically begin as soon as an applicant completes and submits their application.
Next Steps

In addition to automating the Request to Hire form, the offer letter and the onboarding process are also being automated. After a candidate has been chosen and the Rationale Form has been submitted, the recruiter will generate an offer card. The candidate will be emailed and invited to view the offer in their account. They can accept the offer in the Applicant Portal. Some of the onboarding forms will also be available in the Employee Portal, accessible to them prior to their start date. Some forms will need to be submitted in person; for example, the I9 and W4. At this point, the recruiter will be able to begin reference checks in the system.

The candidate will see they have an offer, and be able to view and accept the offer. They will then be invited to the employee portal to view additional information and documents.
Onboarding forms are available in the Employee Portal, accessible to candidates prior to their start date. The forms which need to be submitted in person, such as the I9 and W4, can be printed from here. There is additional information about parking passes, benefits, and health insurance plans.
