

Work Study Program Overview

Rowan University provides several part-time work programs for our students. First, the federal financial aid program, commonly known as Federal Work-Study (FWS) is offered through Financial Aid. The second program is an institutionally supported program called Institutional Work-Study (IWS). Finally, a student can also be hired as an hourly employee on a part time temporary status. This category applies when a department has a surplus in grant or budget funds. Each year more than 1,700 students participate in these programs.

These Work-Study Programs are designed to help both students and the departments who employ them. Students in need of financial assistance are given the opportunity to earn part of their educational expenses. The programs provide an opportunity for students to gain skills and knowledge that may aid them after graduation.

Supervisor Responsibilities

A successful employment experience requires the cooperation and effort of both the supervisor and student.

Supervisors or employers are expected to:

- Ensure that students complete all necessary payroll paperwork (I9's and W4's and proof of social security number) and that new student employees review Student Employee Orientation Manuals.
- Initiate all salary adjustments.
- Initiate paperwork to terminated student assignment when needed.
- Provide complete and clear explanation of the following:
 - The work structure of the department or agency.
 - The specific duties assigned to the student employee(s).
 - The work schedule (i.e., starting and closing times, lunch and work breaks).
 - Procedure for tracking and recording hours worked.
- Designate a specific person as the student employee supervisor.
- Discuss any questions, concerns or misunderstandings that might arise.
- Provide proper job training and knowledge to student employees.
- Be aware that time sheets and time cards are legal documents that are subjected to frequent audits. The supervisor's and students' signatures acknowledge the acceptance of all its legal responsibilities.

Federal Work-Study Program Eligibility

The Federal Work-Study program is available to students who have been awarded work-study as part of their financial aid package. It is given to students with financial need on a first come first served basis. Awards are given through the Financial Aid department. The student has the money awarded to them then they can look for employment on campus and use those funds to be paid.

Institutional Work-Study Program Eligibility

The Institutional Work-Study (IWS) program is available to all students whether or not they are eligible for financial aid. It is possible for students to work both the FWS and IWS programs during the course of the academic year. If students are eligible for Federal Work Study funds, they must use the FWS funds first. Institutional funds are allocated to the departments. Students can apply for employment in the departments and be paid as long as the department has funds available. Departments are responsible for monitoring their IWS budgets.

New Student Employee Orientation

The NSEO book can be found on the Human Resource webpage: NEO Student Employees

An overview of this document should be provided by the supervisor. The “Acknowledgement of Receipt of Training Documents” page located on page 89, must be signed off by the student and sent to the Office of Human Resources. This policy is mandated by the State of New Jersey.

Job Placement

A current inventory of available jobs is maintained on the Internet at: <https://sites.rowan.edu/financial-aid/paying-for-college/work-study/apply.html>. Students are expected to conduct a job search until they find a position in a department, office or in an off-campus community service site. We recommend that students identify a job that interests them and then contact the designated person to schedule an interview.

Required Paperwork

In order to be placed on the payroll system, “first-time” student workers must complete an “Employment Eligibility Verification” (I9 form). Students need to provide appropriate forms of identification as listed on the I-9 form to the Supervisor or Human Resources whoever is verifying the form. The FIRST form establishes identity: a photocopy of your driver’s license, U.S. passport, ID card issued by federal, state or local government agency, college I.D. with photograph or selective service card. The SECOND form establishes employment eligibility such as a social security card. Supervisors who are verifying documents must also complete the bottom section of the I9 and sign. Students must present proof of legal name and social security number. Acceptable documents include a social security card, W-2 from a previous employer or pay stub with legal name and social security number. Students are also required to complete the form, "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate" (Form W-4). These forms can be down-loaded from the HR web page. If a student takes a leave of absence for more than two years, a new I-9 must be completed.

Foreign Students

Individuals in a variety of non-immigrant statuses may legally work in the United States. Some require an Employment Authorization card (EAD), while others do not. Individuals with F-1 (student) visas may work on campus. They must have a social security card with the notation "valid for employment only with INS authorization". However, they do not require an EAD or other specific authorizing documents for on-campus employment. They must present a valid rowan University I-20 along with the social security card.

Please direct inquiries regarding eligibility documents to International Students Services, Savitz Hall, and (856)256-4238.

Length of Employment

The Work Study Program operates year round. The length of employment is determined by the award/allocation, the needs of your employer and the student's own schedule.

Payment Procedure

Students may start working only after the electronic student assignment via EPAF has been approved by HR. Students must sign in and out each work day. Total hours worked each day must be entered on the electronic time sheet via web time entry. Hours worked should be able to be documented in some manner if audited. Students must complete work assignments on campus or at campus work site. They are not allowed to work from home or dorm. Payroll periods are bi-weekly. The pay period begins on a Saturday and closes two weeks later on a Friday. Effective dates of beginning of pay periods are available here: Payroll. Students and supervisors are required to complete the electronic time sheet every pay cycle. Supervisors are responsible for checking the time sheet for accuracy. Departments or offices submit time electronic timesheets directly to the University's Payroll Office via web time entry by 11:59 pm on the Tuesday following the close of a pay period. The Payroll Office will not issue a paycheck if timesheet is not properly authorized and not received on time. Generally, students receive their paycheck via direct deposit to their bank account.

Students are only allowed to work 20 hours a week during school year. This includes all on campus employment. Graduate Assistants and Resident Directors who are assigned 20 hours a week are not allowed to work additional hours.

Please Note: Work-Study earnings (FWS or IWS) are not credited on the semester bill.

Change of Address

Students who change their address with the university after starting a student work position must also contact the University's Payroll Office in Bole Hall to have their address changed in the payroll system. It is important to maintain an accurate address, as the IRS Form W-2 is mailed to the address noted on the withholding statement.

Student Responsibilities

Confidentiality

Confidentiality and privacy are highly valued at Rowan. We maintain academic, financial and other information about our students and employees. This information is guarded by a system of internal controls that allows access only to those with legitimate business reasons and disclosure only in accordance with the law. As a student worker, you may be privy to information, whether from our databases, paperwork that may come your way, or information that is freely provided to you by a fellow student because of your position as a student worker, etc. As a condition of your employment, you must maintain all such information strictly confidential. Divulging information about a student or employee and or his/her family is a violation of the conditions of your employment here at Rowan and will be treated in the most serious way. In fact, it is grounds for immediate dismissal and it may disqualify you from ever holding a job as a student worker. Students, employees and their families have certain rights, protected by law, to access information. In order to insure that pertinent law and university policy are strictly adhered to, any requests for information, even requests from law enforcement officials, are to be handled by supervisory staff who, have been trained in the law and practices of the University.

Additional responsibilities:

- Report to work on time.
- Notify the supervisor when an absence or lateness will occur.
- Wear appropriate attire for the job.
- Observe University policy.
- Perform all duties in a competent manner.

Holidays and Lunch Periods

Students are paid only for hours worked. Therefore, students do not receive any paid holidays and like all employees are not paid for their lunch break. Student employees should take a lunch or dinner break if they have worked more than 6 hours straight.

Absences

Students must notify their supervisor in advance when they plan to be absent from work. In an emergency situation, they should notify their supervisor by telephone no later than the normal reporting time. Repeated and/or unreported absences are sufficient reason to terminate employment.

Unemployment Compensation

Under current laws, student workers are not eligible to receive unemployment compensation after their employment ends. Students filing for unemployment compensation on the basis of having worked at Rowan University under the Student Employment Program will have such claims rejected by the Human Resources Office of the University.

Student Work-Related Injury on Campus

Should a student incur a work-related injury on the job, it must be reported at once to their immediate supervisor and to the Student Health Center located in Linden Hall. If medical treatment is required:

- The student is to report to the Student Health Center for evaluation, treatment or referral. All referrals should be made by the Health Center.
- A Workers Compensation Claims Report must be completed in the Student Health Center.
- If treatment in a hospital emergency room is necessary, the student employee must obtain an Emergency Room sheet/note from the examining physician giving a diagnosis and the date the employee may return to work. Return to work is not permitted before the documented date.
- The Emergency Room Sheet/note is to be presented to the Student Health Center, which will present copies to the Human Resources Office and the department in which the student is employed.
- Upon receipt of the Emergency Room sheet/note by the Student Health Center, the student will be provided with an appointment for a physician's visit for institutional approval to return to work.
- The student should submit, to the Human Resources Office, any bills or receipts of medical expenses which have been paid. The student's claim reports will be submitted to the State of New Jersey so that their medical expenses can be paid.

Grievance Procedure

Most disagreements can and should be resolved through informal discussions. If a matter cannot be resolved, the student and immediate supervisor must hold a special conference to discuss the matter. If the matter cannot be resolved through an informal process, the student may bring this before a grievance committee. The committee consists of a student designated by the Work Study Program and a member of the staff. Prior to the grievance hearing, the student must file a written complaint detailing the problem.

When a student worker moves from a lower-level job to a higher level job, the rate of pay will be at the next level at the salary closest to the rate the student made at the previous job, but not less than his/her current pay. If a student moves to a lower level job, the rate at the new job will be the rate at the lower level at the same step the student has attained. Thus, if a level four step 3 moves to a level two the new rate will be $9.75 (level 2 at step3).

Steps

A department may request to Human Resources any student's pay adjustments, including step increases. Normally student workers earn step increases after they have worked one academic year and return to work to the same department the following year. Additionally, individual departments may establish their own procedures for earning steps as students demonstrate added skills. Rate change request forms are located on the Human Resources web page.
