

About your spring New Student Orientation Fee

Orientation fee

The $105 undergraduate orientation fee covers the cost of orientation programming, including: meals (for both students and parents & family members); a Rowan t-shirt & drawstring backpack; publications & materials; mailings; rental of tables, chairs & equipment; and the online orientation reservation system. Students will receive a continental breakfast and lunch.

Orientation fees are set by the Rowan University Board of Trustees and are similar to those charged by other New Jersey state colleges and universities.

Additional guests

Up to two parents or adult family members are covered by the $105 fee. Meals for additional family members can be added for $25 per person by calling our office at 856-256-4041 in advance. Guests will receive a continental breakfast and lunch.

Payment terms

The undergraduate orientation fee is applied to your Rowan student Bursar account. We will post the $105 to your Rowan University Bursar account once you attend orientation. Any available student account credits (applicable financial aid such as loans, scholarships, grants, etc.) will then be applied toward your fees. You must make full payment of all student fees through the Bursar. The undergraduate orientation fee must be paid before students can enroll in classes for the next semester after initial enrollment.

The orientation fee is non-refundable

Just as tickets to other major events are non-refundable, the orientation fee is non-refundable. As soon as you confirm an orientation reservation, we make non-refundable catering arrangements and purchase materials for your orientation session. We are unable to refund orientation expenses.
