

A PATH TO WORK FOR NEURODIVERSE COLLEGE STUDENTS AND GRADUATES

6 PM- 7 PM THURSDAY | NOVEMBER 7, 2024 | WEBINAR
Register here: bit.ly/3YssruR

Webinar Description:

Career planning and preparation for college students with disabilities is a pressing need that can alleviate the angst inherent in the college-to-career transition process. It is imperative that these students are equipped with essential skills and competencies for employability. Despite advances in improving career readiness for neurodivergent students, there is still much to be done to support employment preparation. The presentation includes successful strategies to help neurodivergent students develop self-efficacy, intentionally engage in a four-year career journey, and utilize support provided them through an active community of care, employer mentorship, and employer pipeline programs.

Presenters:

Constantinos "Dino" Arhontoulis

Constantinos "Dino" Arhontoulis, a PATH Coaching Specialist with extensive experience in working with students with Autism and intellectual disabilities in the Office of Accessibility Services.

Alicia S. Monroe, Ed.D.

Alicia S. Monroe, Ed.D., Assistant Director, Strategic Initiatives for the Office of Career Advancement. Dr. Monroe is an educator and author who has significant expertise in PK-20 curriculum, instruction, data-driven decision making, and operations, as well as developing and facilitating professional learning, establishing sustainable parent/family and community engagement models, grant writing, career readiness, and executive coaching.

Sponsored by: The Office of Student Enrichment and Family Connections