

Access Computing

A Community for Computing Students with Disabilities

AccessComputing offers an online mentoring community, virtual workshops, and the opportunity to receive funding for select conferences, engage in Summer Undergraduate Research Internships, and access online employment resources.

Participate in Research & Conferences

Participate in computing research projects for undergraduates with disabilities and receive funding to attend select conferences.

Find Employment Help and Opportunities

Use employment websites and databases that focus on disabled and neurodiverse job seekers.

Who can Join?

- Students pursuing a degree in computing at a US college or university
- Identify as having a disability (no documentation required).
- International Students (F1 Visa) can join but may not be eligible for summer research experiences.
