More About Alena

Dr. Alena DeGeorge serves as a Benefits Specialist in Human Resources at Rowan University, where she supports faculty, staff, and administrators through benefits administration, compliance, onboarding, and employee support services. She earned her Doctor of Education (Ed.D.) in Educational Leadership: Higher Education from Rowan University, a Master of Arts in Higher Education Administration from William Paterson University, and a Bachelor of Arts in Sociology from Montclair State University.

With more than 15 years of experience in higher education, Alena has worked across human resources, student enrollment services, and administrative operations. Her expertise includes employee benefits administration, HR compliance, institutional policy implementation, and personnel operations within public university environments. In addition to her Human Resources role, she serves as an instructor for Rowan 101: College Success, supporting first-year students in their transition to college and promoting student success.

Alena is committed to collaboration, mentorship, and fostering supportive campus communities through service, professional development, and cross-campus engagement.
