More About Mary

Mary “MJ” Schultes serves as an Academic Advisor for Rowan Online undergraduate students (including the 3+1) enrolled in the Computer Systems Technology, and the Computing and Informatics programs. MJ provides comprehensive support and guidance with a strong commitment to student success as they navigate their academic journey.

MJ holds a Master’s degree in Higher Education: Administration from Rowan University. Her academic background is complemented by over 5 years of experience in higher education, including positions in human resources and student affairs. MJ also has prior experience from the corporate world as a former HR professional handling full-cycle recruitment, employee engagement and relations, and some benefits and compensation.

MJ is a current Glassboro resident, and a proud Prof, as a Rowan University Alumnus she really enjoys volunteering within the campus community! MJ also volunteers for the surrounding Gloucester County area with the United Way of Gloucester County (Events Committee and Women United), St. Vincent de Paul Society (ministry), Genesis Counseling Centers (Events Committee) and much more. She is a proud board member of Rowan University’s WAN (Women’s Alliance Network), the award-winning committee that works hard to promote impactful events to encourage leadership amongst employees and students across campus.

MJ believes in a holistic approach to advising, focusing on a personal, academic, and professional development of each student. In her free time, MJ enjoys trips down to the Jersey Shore, exercising, listening to podcasts, reading and spending time with family and friends.
